Budgeting for needs and wants

Have you ever wanted something new, but you weren't sure whether you really needed it?

Understanding the differences between needs and wants helps you make a budget to manage your spending and informs your daily spending choices. Covering all your needs before you spend money on your wants is a wise financial habit.

Instructions

- 1 Read the scenario below.
- 2 Follow the steps to figure out Pechola's monthly budget.
- 3 Answer the reflection questions.

Scenario

Pechola just moved out of her parents' house and into her first apartment. She has a job as an assistant teacher and brings home $1,200 each month.

Needs, wants, and Pechola's monthly budget

The items in the table on the next page are the things Pechola spends money on in a typical month.

- Add the monthly costs together to figure out if Pechola stays in her budget.
  - Write the total at the bottom of the monthly cost column.
- Decide whether each item is a need or a want and check the appropriate box in the "Need or want?" column.
- Decide which items you think should be in Pechola's budget. Write each item's cost in the "Your choices" column and calculate their total cost.
